

Model and new author Victoria Shelley launches her raunchy first book “It’s a Girl’s Game” and blows the whistle on the world of Premiership football.

As one who knows most of the footballers who have taken out super-injunctions to protect their privacy, nobody understands the world of WAGs better than Victoria Shelley. From her days as a football pin-up and the darling of the fan clubs, to her career as a glamour model and latterly a business woman and entrepreneur, she has been a part of the whirlwind of publicity surrounding the world of footballers and their antics on and off the pitch. Her raunchy new book, “It’s a Girl’s Game”, was inspired by her unique experiences behind the closed doors of the sport.

The book launches on Monday June 27th and, with the current publicity surrounding super injunctions, is bound to be controversial .

Victoria says, “The book is a magical mixture of memories and deep dark secrets mixed up with a handful of spice and schoolgirl dreams in a fantasy world that is not a million miles from reality.”

“It’s a Girl’s Game” is a sexy, funny, fictional story about how three twenty-something girls-next-door become swept up in the emotional rollercoaster world of dating footballers. The story intertwines three unique relationship tales that are each filled with humour and a generous handful of spice. The reader will be sure to laugh with and empathise with our three “Wannabe WAGS”: Leila, a witty football supporter, lovable airhead Sammi, and curvy, feisty Gemma.

“It will melt your Kindle!”

“This is hot stuff! Anyone with a naughty side you will love it!”

“Sooo funny! Nearly spat my tea out!”

“Cranked up to eleven on the naughty scale!!!”

“Football & sex, What a great combination!”

“It’s a Girl’s Game” is a great read for anyone who loves the world of glamour, gossip, naughtiness and scandal when mixed with the beer, singing and drunken larks surrounding the beautiful game of football.

Victoria Shelley is a model with a face that is instantly recognisable from the pages of the UK fashion and men’s magazines. She has a background in the City in corporate finance and is now a professional writer. “It’s a Girl’s Game” is her first novel, which was inspired by her love of football and the time she spent following the game.

In her early twenties she was often told she was photogenic, so Victoria tried her hand at photographic modelling. Being a naturally versatile model she became experienced in this area, working over the years on a wide variety of assignments from commercial to glamour.

Victoria has had a creative flair for writing since her teens. Having a diverse range of interests and a number of writing styles, she has been published in various capacities from business magazines, to football websites and beauty websites.

As a result of living life to the full in her twenties and building valuable life experiences, Victoria has just released her first sexy humour fiction book in paperback titled, “It’s a Girl’s Game.”
